The Department of Chemistry at Temple University invites applications and nominations for two tenured/tenure-track faculty positions with an emphasis on Organic and Biochemistry. These positions are open with respect to rank. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level are expected to demonstrate strong potential for establishing a vigorous research program funded by peer-reviewed research grants and for developing excellence in teaching. Applicants at the Associate and Full Professor levels are expected to have established research programs of high quality, supported by substantial externally funded peer-reviewed research grants and demonstrated significant teaching accomplishments. Salaries are highly competitive and substantial resources have been provided for start-up funding. Ample modern laboratory space is available.

The Department of Chemistry (http://www.chem.temple.edu) is engaged in a new initiative of growth in research and education, and enjoys multiple collaborative interactions with research groups in other departments in the College of Science and Technology, the College of Engineering, and the Health Sciences campus. Temple University (http://www.temple.edu), located in historic Philadelphia, is part of the Pennsylvania Commonwealth System of Higher Education, and serves over 34,000 students. Philadelphia is a vibrant center of the arts and sciences and a major locus of chemical, biomedical, pharmaceutical and biotechnological research and development.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae; a statement of research interests and (if applicable) current grant support; a statement of teaching philosophy; and arrange to have four letters of recommendation sent to: Dr. Robert J. Levis, Professor and Chair, Department of Chemistry (016-00), Temple University, Beury Hall, 13th and Norris Streets, Philadelphia, PA 19122. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until suitable candidates are identified.

Temple University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The Department specifically invites and encourages applications from women and minorities.