Sharing the spirits of the gifts

Everyone has a story ...

Albert Abercrombie's first job was cleaning out the bunkhouses of oil field teamsters — for 25 cents a day.

Hermina Huhn Fitzpatrick taught others in a one-room rural school — with only an eighth-grade education.

William McGowan was able to finish college only with the help of scholarships — before co-founding MCI.

These are just a few of the stories behind the endowed scholarships and fellowships of Wichita State University — stories that are now being shared in a seminal project called "Spirit of the Gift."

This unique venture, developed by the WSU Foundation, is an online catalog of the histories behind the gifts. Students, donors and the general public now can browse these bios.

The formative endeavor began as a result of discussions by WSU National Advisory Council members and was nurtured with the support of WSU President Don Beggs.

"This program allows students to glean information about those individuals whose generosity has provided scholarship support to WSU," said Elizabeth King, president and CEO of the WSU Foundation. "Learning about the donors and what motivated them to create their gifts is not just informational, it serves to inspire."

The bios contain information regarding the donor's relationship to WSU and the donor's career history. If the bio is a memorial or is to honor an individual or individuals, then information regarding the honoree is included. Donors' private information is not shared, and the subjects of the biographies have the opportunity to "opt out."

"Scholarships and fellowships are more than just dollars, and they're intended to be more than dollars," said Beggs. "I think the 'Spirit of the Gift' project helps people better understand the intent of the donor. It makes you more aware of the personal part of the gift."

Devoted Shockers recognized in honor roll of donors

Dear Shocker Friend:

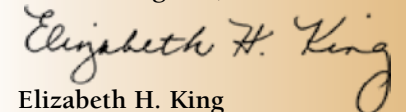

In this issue of Horizon, we gratefully acknowledge the loyal members of the WSU donor family.

Listed on the following pages are names of the individuals and businesses who gave of their resources during the fiscal year 2006, which ran from July 1, 2005, through June 30, 2006. Contributors who donated a minimum of $250 during fiscal 2006 are listed here.

In continuing our efforts to be cost effective, you again will find the Foundation's annual report exclusively on our Web site in late November at www.foundation.wichita.edu. It will include a list of all donors contributing $100-plus.

Please know that through your contributions, you are helping to continue a history of academic excellence at WSU — shining a light on the lives of those who share the Shocker experience. Thank you.

Warmest regards,

Elizabeth H. King
President & CEO
WSU Foundation

"You read something about someone else giving, and that changes your heart. Seeing and knowing, I think, is important to really understanding these gifts."

— Coralyn Summers

Fairmount Society

The Fairmount Society is Wichita State University's most distinguished support group. A new category was created two years ago to recognize the university's top tier of donors, the Fairmount Society Lifetime Achievement Members, those whose total outright giving exceeds $1 million. Lifetime membership in the Fairmount Society is extended to those contributing $200,000 or more in a lifetime. Annual members gave a minimum of $20,000 during the fiscal year 2006. Fairmount Society members are included in the President's Club. Associate status is given to corporations, businesses and foundations.

Sharing the spirits of the gifts cont'd from front cover

Even if you're not a recipient, it's interesting to go in and see these things about the donors."

"Whoever thought of this idea has a good head on their shoulders," said Mary Moore McKown, daughter of a donor.

She heartily approved of her father's biography and thinks that those who read it and the others will become more interested in everything WSU has to offer. The Sid F. Moore Endowed Scholarship is awarded to a student in the WSU teacher education program who is a graduate of Wichita High School East.

"The scholarships will mean more—give a more personal insight," McKown said.

Coralyn Summers, a WSU donor whose husband, Dr. Ronald Summers, currently has an endowed scholarship featured on the site, agrees.

"You read something about someone else giving, and that changes your heart." She concluded, "Seeing and knowing, I think, is important to really understanding these gifts."

Discover the spirit behind these scholarships and hundreds of others at www.foundation.wichita.edu.

Second generation chairs National Advisory Council

Nancy Martin '69, COO of Emergency Services PA, is the 2006-08 chair for the WSU Foundation's National Advisory Council and its board of directors. She also is the first to follow in a parent/descendant leadership role as her father, Oliver Elliott '42, was a past Foundation board chair.

Martin's husband, Tom '65, is the retired owner and president of Hub Supply Inc. The Martins are members of the Society of 1895 and life members of the Alumni Association and the Fairmount Society. In 1990, they made a deferred gift of $1 million to the Fairmount College of Liberal Arts and Sciences to establish a professional development fund. The Martins have two adult sons, Mike and Greg.

In addition to Martin's participation on the Foundation's board, she also has served on the College of Health Professions Dean's Advisory Committee.

In 2005, she received the Outstanding Volunteer Fundraiser Award from the Association of Fundraising Professionals. She also was named one of the first Women in Business by the Wichita Business Journal.

Nancy Martin

"Just as a child does not appropriately develop without nurturing and guidance," Martin said, "neither do our communities flourish without volunteers to provide necessary leadership and support. Wichita State provided many of us opportunities for education and development, and it is incumbent upon us to help replenish the university resources that are still needed by today's students."

Annual giving level increases to $3,500 for President's Club membership

For many years, the WSU Foundation has recognized donors who have taken lead roles in providing financial gifts to the students and programs of the university through membership in the President's Club. Since 1999, President's Club annual membership has been extended for annual gifts totaling a minimum of $2,500. Those making gifts of at least $100,000 have been eligible for lifetime membership. With approval in May by the Foundation Board of Directors, the minimum giving level for annual membership is $3,500, which began July 1. The lifetime membership level remains at $100,000.

President's Club members are acknowledged in Foundation publications and receive a membership plaque. A highlight of the year is the annual President's Club event.

The Harvest Club giving level will be expanded to include annual gifts from $1,000 to $3,499.

President's Club members reflect their confidence in the future of WSU.
