Welcome from the Program Chair

Welcome back to St. Louis, Missouri for the annual conference of the International Studies Association (ISA)-Midwest. We welcome our co-sponsoring organizations, the Central Slavic Conference (CSC) and the Midwest Association for Latin American Studies (MALAS).

CSC President David Borgmeyer has assembled a number of interesting panels and roundtables, which we encourage ISA-Midwest participants to attend. We also welcome MALAS to our co-sponsored conference this year. J.D. Bowen has also organized a number of interesting panels, including several co-sponsored with the ISA-Midwest. The breadth and depth of offerings from our two partner organizations nicely rounds out the panels and roundtables from ISA-Midwest.

I have organized four roundtables with generous support from the ISA Professional Development Committee. First, we have a roundtable on Success Strategies for International Students on the U.S. Job Market (Friday, 1:30 p.m.). Second, we have a roundtable on Surviving and Thriving in a Temporary Academic Position (Friday, 10:15). Third, we have a Job Seeker’s Café designed for graduate students and others to meet with senior faculty to receive feedback on CVs and other job application materials (Saturday, 8:15 a.m.). Finally, we have a roundtable on Women’s Professional Development Issues (Saturday, 10:15). There is also a teaching workshop on strategies/pedagogies focused on “Designing and Using Simulations in the Classroom” (Friday, 8:15 am, sponsored by the ALIAS section of ISA) with complimentary afternoon snacks. The Foreign Policy Analysis journal is sponsoring a panel on Foreign Aid Policy (Friday, 8:15am) with a complimentary continental breakfast. We also have two featured undergraduate panels organized by Cristian Cantir of Oakland University to highlight some of the best research by our students across the Midwest (Friday, 8:15 a.m. and 10:15 a.m.).

ISA-Midwest’s customary reception will follow Friday’s sessions and all participants are welcome. Harvey Starr, President of the International Studies Association and the Dag Hammarskjöld Professor in International Affairs at the University of South Carolina, will deliver the keynote address, “Inquiry, Logic and International Politics 25 Years On.” On Saturday, participants will gather for the Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award Luncheon. This year’s honoree is Professor A. Cooper Drury of the University of Missouri-Columbia. Please note that you must have a reservation for this event.

I am extremely grateful to my conference assistant: Spencer Willardson (University of Nevada, Las Vegas). I am also grateful to all of the University of Iowa graduate students who are still willing to help me out with the conference even though I have moved to ASU: Chris Anderson, Chris Eubanks, Jon Ring, Seojong Lee, Samantha Lange and Ray Ou Yang.

Finally, I would like to thank Sara Mitchell, the current ISA-Midwest president, for her excellent work and assistance. Carolyn Shaw was also a huge help and source of institutional knowledge. We wish all of you a productive and enjoyable conference!

Cameron G. Thies, Arizona State University
The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award

The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award is given annually to an individual who has significantly influenced international studies scholarship in the ISA-Midwest region. The Quincy Wright Award honors a professor with an exceptional record of scholarship and a distinguished record of service to the International Studies Association, ISA-Midwest and to other international affairs organizations.

A. Cooper Drury is professor and chair of Political Science at the University of Missouri. He is also editor-in-chief of Foreign Policy Analysis. He earned his BA and MA from Michigan State University (1990, 1992) and his PhD from Arizona State University (1997). His primary research and teaching interests focus on foreign policy and international political economy. Specifically, he studies the causes, outcomes, and consequences of economic sanctions. Professor Drury has authored or co-authored two books, over two dozen articles and chapters, appearing in journals such as International Studies Quarterly, Journal of Politics, Journal of Peace Research, Journal of Conflict Resolution, Foreign Policy Analysis, Political Research Quarterly, and International Interactions. He is also the co-author of a textbook. He is the three-time winner of the Frank Klingberg Award for Outstanding Faculty Paper at the ISA-Midwest conference and has been awarded multiple research grants.

Professor Drury has trained more than a dozen doctoral students at the University of Missouri, and in 2006, he received the University’s Gold Chalk Award for excellence in graduate education and mentoring. Professor Drury is very active in the profession. In addition to being the editor of FPA, he is co-chair of the 2014 WISC/ISA conference, a past-president of both the Foreign Policy Analysis section and Midwest region of the International Studies Association. He also served as a member of the Association’s executive committee and sits on each of the ISA journal’s editorial boards.
ISA Midwest Awards: Nominations for any of the following awards may be submitted via email to Cameron G. Thies (cameron.thies@asu.edu) by December 31, 2013.

In Memoriam: Professor Charles Timberlake

Since 2010, the Central Slavic Conference has hosted the Charles Timberlake Memorial Symposium, honoring an outstanding Scholar of Russia and Soviet Union.

Dr. Charles Timberlake was professor of history specializing in modern Russia and the Soviet Union at the University of Missouri - Columbia (MU) from 1967 to 2004. He also served as chair of the MU history department for four years. He authored a history of Russian Orthodox monasteries and convents since 1917, co-authored a study on the quality of life in Russian rural villages in the former Soviet Union, edited a book on essays on Russian liberalism, and edited a book on Religious and Secular Forces in Late Tsarist Russia. He was the author of more than 40 book chapters and journal articles on socio-economic development in European Russia.

Professor Timberlake lectured abroad at universities in England, Finland, Russia, Georgia, and the People’s Republic of China (where he was an honorary professor of history at Lanzhou University in 1991). Professor Timberlake was loved by his students (both undergraduate and graduate) at “Mizzou.” His undergraduate course on Stalinist Russia was a popular staple for years. In 1996, he won the MU Byler Distinguished Professor award. In 2000, he won the University of Missouri Alumni Association’s Distinguished Faculty Award. And in 2002, he won the MU Provost’s Award for Leadership in International Education. In 2002, he won Berea College’s Distinguished Alumnus Award.
Professor Timberlake received his BA from Berea College in 1957, a MA from Claremont Graduate School in 1962, and a PhD from the University of Washington (where he studied with Donald Treadgold, a well-known 20th Century Russian history specialist) in 1968. Professor Timberlake was instrumental in helping further the development of the Central Slavic Conference (CSC) from its early years in the 1960s when it was the Bi-State Slavic Conference. He went on to serve as its president on more than one occasion.

Central Slavic Conference Presidential Prize
In honor of its 50th Anniversary, the CSC established a special Presidential Prize to be given annually to a member of the Central Slavic Conference in recognition of outstanding and dedicated service to the Conference and the profession in promoting and sustaining Slavic Studies.
2013 – Patricia Timberlake
2012 – William Adams

Charles Timberlake Graduate Paper Prize
Established in 2010, the Central Slavic Conference annually gives the Charles Timberlake Graduate Paper Prize to the best graduate student paper at the conference submitted to the prize committee.
2012 – Dinah Jansen
2011 – Lauren Fath
2010 – Sally Stocksdale
The Dr. Richard (Dick) Millett Scholarship Program was established during the 2008 Midwest Association for Latin American Studies (MALAS) conference held in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The program provides support to students participating at MALAS conferences and recognizes the authors of the best student papers by awarding the annual Dick Millett Prizes.
