Field Notes
Sabrina Perez Glatt & Shaunna Millar
Director & Associate Director of Field Practicum

As we speak to you, Shaunna Millar is working on sending out fast and furious emails to get placements for the 2012-2013 Academic Year. This has been a shorter semester and we can sure feel it in the Practicum Program. However, as usual, we persevere to get the best placements possible for the learning of our new class.

We cannot express our gratitude enough for those of you who served as a field instructor/on-site supervisor and provided our 2012 social work graduates with the opportunities to use their skills and serve the clients in your agencies and institutions. Second semester, I believe, we all have seen the growth and competence developed by our soon to be social workers, that you helped educate. It was great to see many of you at Field Practicum Training. Thank you for taking the time to come so our students are well served.

And to our students, who demonstrated the competence with those you served. You should be proud of yourselves as we are of you. Our communities need you and your ethical skills to serve those in need. As I was watching “60 minutes” last evening, the discussion was how poverty has fallen off the political calendar. We must continue to advocate and make sure this does not continue to happen to almost half of our nation. As social workers I challenge us all to do what we can.

BSW Beat
Natalie Grant
Director, BSW Program

This Spring semester has been full of wonderful teaching moments as well as professional development for myself along with other faculty. Early in the semester Dr. Brien Bolin and I traveled to Washington D.C. for re-accreditation training with the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). As we are preparing for our reaccreditation this coming year, we were enlightened by the in depth knowledge we gained.

We were only able to sight-see at night and our own Dr. Kyoung Lee happened to be in DC at the same time, so these brave souls humored me with a four mile power walk in the dark to see the National Monument and Lincoln Memorial. It was very beautiful at night even at 40 degrees!

Our faculty also prepared for re-accreditation by having a retreat at the Envision building downtown. The Envision group was so gracious toward us and we really enjoyed being able to get a great deal of work done in such a nice space. I snapped this picture of Deah Miller and Shaunna Millar who built an amazing structure for a team building exercise. I cannot say that mine was even close to this. These two are not only beautiful but they are very smart and creative!

Dr. Bolin and I also had a research paper accepted at the annual Bachelor Program Director’s (BPD) conference that was held in Portland, OR during the time of the NCAA basketball games. How lucky could we be to travel with so many Kansans and see Shockers t-shirts all over Portland!

Our research paper was on the topic of Digital Storytelling being used in the classroom to increase diversity awareness. We brought a couple of student digital story projects with us to show the conference group and were very well received.

This conference has an annual 5K run in honor of Dr. Jim Wahlberg who was a leader in social work education for many years. This is a picture of those runners. I ran as well and it was absolutely beautiful to run in downtown Portland!

As the semester draws to a close, I reflect back and feel very good about all that has been accomplished not only in our department but also by all of the students. I know students have been committing a great deal of time to Social Work projects and it will be wonderful to get to see all they have done as the last few weeks rolls on.

Graduation is here for those seniors! We’re proud of you and it will be such a joy to see you walk across that stage on May 11! Great job and best of luck in your future endeavors!
SOSW
Tim Hunter, President

Seniors, less than a month left and you will be taking that big walk to your future. I want to thank Pam Oliver, Colinda Starling, and Tara Dieckmann for all their support, and help running SOSW. I would also like to give a big thanks to Sheryl Chapman, for being there for support and encouragement, as the faculty advisor.

The next year will bring a new group of officers and students, that will give new ideas and life to SOSW. SOSW is going to need your support and involvement, so show your SOSW pride and sign up for next year now. Next year will be a year of bringing BSW and MSW students together for an unforgettable year. Let’s show WSU that the School of Social Work is the best school on campus.

2012 Projects for Empowerment and Justice (ScWk 817)

These projects will have a life in the community beyond the close of the semester. The school of Social Work recognizes these group efforts to promote the well-being of varied populations and the application of empowerment and justice concerns in the advanced generalist curriculum.

- Human Sex Trafficking is on the rise in the US as well as in Kansas. We are in the process of setting up an Advocacy Chapter (in conjunction with Free the Slaves) here at WSU and would like to hear from others who are interested in participating in this group. If you are interested, please contact veypyles@wichita.edu.

- Develop a public service announcement to increase awareness of the waiting-lists for services to people with developmental and intellectual disabilities.

- Develop a Facebook page to link LGBT youth to supports and resources (The Lotus Movement).

- Develop supports for caregivers with the creation of a manual to “train-the-trainer.”

- Advance nutritional well-being of youth-at-risk with development of an interactive cooking demonstration and education program at a residential facility.

- Create a pilot program for meditation and acupressure workshops to support the mental health of prisoners in correctional facilities.

- Develop resources for outreach to immigrants, particularly to expand access to community resources.

- Create a website (SAC-Strengthening Aging Communities) to link area elderly to community resources.

- Organize a program in a child welfare agency to expand staff awareness of issues of LGBT youth.

- Creation of a resource guide and Facebook page to improve supports and access to services for families of traumatized youth.

- Build relations in a neighborhood with the creation of a community garden.

- Organize a community event to link autistic children with animals and promote use of animal-assisted therapies.

- Improve awareness and resources for survivors of PTSD and TBI with creation of a brochure, a web-site, and an “information table” at the RSC.

- Advocacy of mental health screening with military deployments (petitions, flyers, and Facebook (SOS - Screen Our Soldiers).

Student Accomplishments

Annamarie Wilson - My Topeka Experience

My opportunity to visit Topeka with the WSU Student Government Association was not only eye-opening, but it served as a reminder of the disparities between our overarching cultural norms and the values of social work practice. Through meetings with legislators and observations of governmental sessions, I was able to take stock of the attitudes of both individual politicians and the legislative system as a whole. Unfortunately, these interactions were not encouraging. Rather, they have caused me to question the direction of the American political system, and to increase my own involvement with local activism and advocacy issues.

Power imbalance is clear when observing Kansas state legislature. While I do not know the exact percentage, I would estimate that 90-95% of the senators and representatives are Caucasian males between 40 and 55 years of age. Only a handful of the observed participants were female, and even fewer could claim membership in a minority group. However, this lack of diversity does not prevent this legislative body from making monumental decisions and creating policies that impact the lives of all Kansans. The most striking fact about legislative participation is that, rather than being representative of the constituent population as it should be, the legislature is entirely composed of persons who have the economic freedom to devote time to the political process with relatively little financial reimbursement. This requirement leads to a legislative body composed of upper-middle class individuals, which limits the diversity of the group even further.

During my observations of the budget committee, I was able to see a possible consequence to the lack of diversity in the Kansas legislature. The topic of the session was wage and salary increases for the employees of the juvenile corrections complex. The proposed budget increase was approximately $400,000 dollars. The increase would allow for a general wage increase for all employees and an increase in the amount paid out to veteran workers (that is, those who had been employed between 10 and 25 years in the department). A wage increase for the employees was proposed in order to reduce turn-over and increase job satisfaction, two goals that go hand in hand. However, only 3/4ths of the proposed increase would be used for these goals. Over $100,000 dollars of the proposed budget increase would be paid directly to the chief officer of the juvenile detention system. This is not a bonus, this is a proposed annual increase to his salary. I find this distribution of resources to be disgraceful!

My horror with the financial suggestions of the budget committee would only increase as the session continued, due to the suggested source of funding for the proposed wage increases for law enforcement personnel. In order to cover the increases, the legislature is proposing that funds be relocated from the Addictions and Problem Gambling fund; an SRS program that serves a lower status population of Kansans. The allocated funding for this SRS program before the removal of funds for the wage increases elsewhere is approximately $450,000 dollars. Removing the funds necessary to finance the wage increases for the detention workers would mean that the APG fund would have an operating budget of only $50,000 dollars, that is 1/9th the original budget for this state-wide program. The consequences to this service population were not discussed or even noted by the sub-committee, not did any member of the main committee request information to this effect.

Though we were only able to spend 20 minutes observing the budget session, I had more than enough time to become incensed by the behavior that I witnessed. Unfortunately, I did not have an opportunity to speak with any of the legislators who are members of the budget committee about the apparent lack of reasoning that is permeating the financial decisions at the state capital. Thinking back on my visit, I find myself filled with a sense of impotent rage. The meetings with individual representatives showed me that there is a deep lack of respect for members of the body politic; I was condescended and spoken-down to in each meeting, not an encouraging experience in any way.

I find myself wondering what course of action is available to individuals, like myself and other social workers, in the face of a system that seems to be designed to perpetuate oppression and disadvantage. I do not regret having the opportunity to witness the challenges that I will face in my future career. However, I do wish that I had been provided with an outlet or direction for the emotions that it sparked. I would rather light a candle than curse the darkness, but I just cannot seem to find my matches.
Summer/Fall Electives

SUMMER - WSU MAIN CAMPUS

ScWk 730G - Spirituality and SW Practice (3 credits) - CRN 36561 - Dr. Fred Besthorn - MTWRF, May 21 - June 1, 12:30 - 5:00 pm
This course provides a framework of knowledge, values, skills and experiences for spiritually-sensitive social work practice. A comparative approach to teaching about religious and spiritual diversity is employed in order to provide understanding of diverse perspectives and to foster self-awareness of the student’s spiritual commitments and their congruence with professional values.

ScWk 610P - International Social Work (1 credit) - CRN 36574 - Liz Wine - FS, July 13 & 14, 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
This course provides an overview of micro and macro practice outside of one’s own culture and internationally that will facilitate skill development in cross-cultural assessment and intervention at the individual, group and community level.

ScWk 730O - Community Organizing in Social Work (1 credit) - CRN 36610 - Taunya Rutenbeck - F, July 20 & 27, 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
This course will focus on the knowledge, skill and value base of community organizing. The history and contexts of community organization development, coalition building, planning and lobbying will be explored. The course will apply the problem solving process to the roles and approaches of community organizers in affecting change. The contexts and models of contemporary social movements, grassroots organizations and leadership will be used as examples in addressing the larger community concerns of groups.

ScWk 610W - SW Practice with the Aging (1 credit) - CRN 36578 - Annette Graham - F, June 22 & 29, 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
This course focuses on the psychosocial, biological and environmental aspects of current social work policy and practice with the aging population. Examines critical topics related to the elderly such as loss, care giving, mental health, sexuality, elder abuse, Medicare and alternative housing needs.

ScWk 730E - SW Practice with Veterans (1 credit) - CRN 36609 - Laura Taylor - S, June 23 & 30, 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
This course provides a working knowledge of the veteran population and the psychosocial factors that affect social work intervention.

ScWk 730I - Clinical Interventions with Children & Adolescents (3 credits) - CRN 35987 - Sherry Chapman - TWR, July 3 - 26, 1:00 - 4:30 pm
This class provides an overview of advanced social work techniques in working with children & adolescents.

ScWk 870 - Clinical Assessment for Advanced Generalist Practice (3 credits) - CRN 35825 - Marjean Harris - TWR, July 3 - 26, 5:30 - 9:00 pm
This course critically examines the DSM-IV as a basis for social work assessment and learn its use within an advanced generalist practice perspective.

ScWk 610O - Biblio-Interventions for SW Practice (1 credit) - CRN 36563 - Shaunna Millar - July 2 - 28
This course provides an introduction to creative, book-based intervention strategies for use in social work practice, focusing on both children’s and adult literature. Students will explore how individuals, groups and communities can all be empowered through the use of fictional stories, and engage in hands-on activities in the classroom firsthand.

SUMMER - WSU WEST CAMPUS

ScWk 610Q - Animal Human Connection (3 credits) - CRN 15591 - Sabrina Perez Glat - MTWRF, August 6-18, 9:00 am - 5:00 pm
This course explored the connection between humans and animals and its use in social work practice. Students will learn how this connection can be used effectively in various therapeutic and population settings, including animal companion and activity programs.

Meets On-Line on August 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 & 15 & In Class on August 10, 11, 17 & 18.

ScWk / WomS 340 - Human Sexuality (3 credits) - CRN 10255 / 10254 - Margot Breckbill - T, August 23 - December 4, 4:30 - 6:55 pm
This course provides a forum for information and discussion on topics relating to physical, psychosocial and cultural components of human sexuality. Includes female and male sexual attributes and roles, sexual problems, alternate lifestyles, birth control, values, and sexuality and cultural components of sexuality.

ScWk / WomS 541 - Women & Poverty (3 credits) - CRN 11682 / 15947 - Natalie Grant - S, October 27 - November 17, 9:00 am - 4:30 pm
Addresses the problem of poverty among women in the US today, and examines existing and proposed public policies designed to alleviate the problem. Explored theoretical models of poverty policy.

ScWk 832 - School Social Work (3 credits) - CRN 10502 - Judy Ebersole - Th, August 25 - December 6, 4:30 - 6:55 pm
This course conveys an understanding of systematic intervention in schools using various intervention modalities. Focuses on the roles of social workers in schools, including provision of direct service, consultation, advocacy, program development, and evaluation, as well as liaison functions with families and community systems. Students integrate an understanding of child development, familial and school crises that affect child development, and the importance of the social worker/parent relationship.

ScWk 870 - Clinical Assessment for Advanced Generalist Practice (3 credits) - CRN 13692 - Orren Dale - T, August 23 - December 4, 6:00-8:25 pm
The course uses a biopsychosocial perspective to understand problematic patterns of functioning identified as diagnoses in the DSM-IV. Students critically examine the DSM-IV as a basis for social work assessment and learn its use within an advanced generalist practice perspective.

POWER Conference Wrap-Up

POWER Conference 2012 has been wrapped up and planning has begun for POWER 2013. Although final numbers are not yet in, the 2012 conference was a big success. Attendance was phenomenal, we packed the Hughes Metroplex! Dr. Dennis Saleebey led the array of speakers on the subject of staying strong in the face of economic adversity. Attendees reported that they loved the camaraderie, the exhibitors, the speakers, the food...did we already mention the camaraderie? Seriously, the chance to get together with other social workers and network, unwind, learn new skills and just recharge our batteries, seems to be the most important reason people come back to POWER year after year.

As mentioned, the planning committee is already at work on POWER 2013. This is a very special POWER, because it will be the 10th annual conference. Watch the newsletter and your email for details to come later, but be aware that some important decisions have already been made. The POWER Conference for 2013 will be held March 1, 2013 at Century II in Wichita.

Brown Bag Learning: You Bring Your Lunch; We Serve the CEU’s

Digital Storytelling: Stories of Diversity and Bringing Art and Technology to Social Work

Summary: Social workers and helping professionals are drawn to the stories of our people. Stories help us understand issues, entertain us, stimulate us, educate us, and connect us to individuals and groups. Digital storytelling is the process of creating multimedia representations of diversity or any topic using video, music, photos, and narration. It is a powerful tool for raising awareness, promoting self and concept understanding, building information and communication literacy, and listening to and empathizing with individuals and groups. The Center for Digital Storytelling in Berkeley, CA is an international nonprofit that promotes the use of Digital Storytelling for social services, healthcare, education, historic and cultural preservation, community development, human rights, and environmental justice. They explain that youth and adults can use digital tools to record meaningful stories of their lives and share these stories in ways that enable learning, build community, and inspire justice. This brownbag session will introduce these tools and provide ideas about bridging art and technology into our social work practice.

Learning Objectives:
1. Introduce concepts of Digital Storytelling and discuss tools for creating projects in the workplace.
2. Discuss opportunities for increasing computer skills and capitalizing on creative thinking and talents of social workers & helping professionals.
3. Promote concepts of diversity; enhance engagement and empowerment practices.

Presenter: Natalie Grant received a BA degree in Social Work from WSU in 1999. She went on to earn Masters degrees in both Social Work (2000) and Criminal Justice (2005) from WSU. She completed a Doctorate in Educational Leadership also at WSU in 2011. She has worked for the Liberal Arts and Sciences Advising Center and the Cooperative Education program at WSU. In the larger community, Dr. Grant served as a psychiatric social worker/therapist for COMCARE’s Community Support Services. She teaches at both the undergraduate and graduate level and serves as the director for the Bachelor of Social Work program. She teaches a course that includes a Digital Storytelling project that helps us bring art and technology to our social work practice. Dr. Grant’s research interests are in development of helping professions, self-care, digital storytelling, and workforce issues.

From Trauma to Resilience: Short-Term Help, Long Term Gains
The National Institute for Trauma and Loss in Children
August 7-9, 2012

Today’s educators and childcare professionals are on the front lines of a battle they may not even know they’re in: the fight against trauma in children. TLC training programs are in place in more than 3,000 schools, community-based programs, and childcare facilities across North America and internationally, giving parents, teachers and childcare professionals the early intervention tools and techniques it takes to turn young lives around. For more information about this evidence based modality, see the TLC website.

1st Annual National Poetry Contest for Social Workers

The University of Iowa School of Social Work, announces the first annual National Poetry Contest for Social Workers. Any social work student, faculty member, or alumnus from a social work program accredited by the Council on Social Work Education - may participate in the contest. The format for the contest will vary each year. For the inaugural year, participants are invited to submit a 7 line poem. The deadline for submission is March 1, 2013. Poems should speak to hopes, dreams, fears, and experiences related to social work.

The purpose of the contest is to acknowledge the creative talent of social workers and to draw attention to social work as a profession. “Hosting the national poetry contest here in Iowa City is a natural extension of what the School of Social Work has been doing for decades,” says faculty member Mercedes Bern-Klug, a founder of the poetry contest. “We have a 20 year track record of offering a Creative Writing Seminar for social workers and the University of Iowa is known as the ‘writing university.’ Iowa City is a UNESCO City of Literature. Writing is in the air.”

There is no cost to enter the contest. One submission per social worker is allowed. Entries will be judged by a panel of social workers, writers, and poets. The top three submissions will be awarded cash prizes and all submissions will be published in a chapbook and on the UI School of Social Work website. For more information about prizes, deadline and criteria, click here.

WASAC needs volunteers! If you are a compassionate person and want to make a positive difference in the lives of others, then volunteering for Wichita Area Sexual Assault Center may be for you!

The new volunteer training with WASAC will begin May 30. This class will meet Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 10:00 pm and on Saturdays from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm for three weeks.

WASAC volunteers answer the 24 hour crisis line and go to the hospital and sit with victims while the forensic evidence is gathered. Volunteers are asked to make a one year commitment and to sign up for two shifts a month. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer with WASAC, please contact the volunteer coordinator, Anne, at (316) 263-0185 or email anne@wichitasac.com to receive an application.

By volunteering with Envision, you will play an integral role in improving the lives of people who are blind or visually impaired.

Interested in taking one or more of our elective courses, but already have your degree?

You don’t need to be one of our students to take our elective courses. People often take our courses for professional or personal development or licensing requirements. If you aren’t currently a WSU student, you will need to be admitted to WSU as a non-degree seeking student either at the undergraduate or graduate level.

Courses numbered between 500 and 799 can be taken for either undergraduate or graduate credit. In order to take courses numbered 800 or above, you must be admitted to the Graduate School. Be aware that if you take a course for undergraduate credit, you will not be able to apply that as graduate credit or toward a graduate degree in the future.

The application process is simple.

Applying as an undergraduate non-degree bound student:

Submit the simple 2-page application form with the application fee to WSU Admissions. You can download the form or apply online on the WSU Admissions website at www.wichita.edu/admissions. Enter the major code for non-degree bound “K10B” on the application form.

You do not need to submit transcripts to be admitted as an “open admission” non-degree bound student. Once you accumulate 15 credits under that status, you will need to have transcripts sent to WSU to become a regular non-degree bound student.

Applying as a graduate non-degree bound student:

Submit the simple 1-page Graduate School application and the graduation fee to the WSU Graduate School. You can download the form or apply online on the Graduate School website at www.wichita.edu/gradschool.

Have official transcripts sent directly from your universities to the Graduate School. (If the last school you attended was WSU, they will already have your transcripts and you do not need to request them.)

Graduate School offers two levels of non-degree admission:

Non-Degree Status A (major code G46S) allows you to take any graduate level courses numbered 500 and above. The requirements are a bachelors degree from an accredited university and a minimum 2.75 GPA over the last 60 credit hours of coursework.

Non-Degree Status B (major code G66S) allows you to take graduate level classes numbered 500-799. The only requirement is to have a bachelors degree from an accredited university. There is no GPA requirement.
